Wales Street Residents Cry Foul

By A.G. Belisle

MILLBURY - The Planning Board, with all members present, met on Monday, April 24 in a session that lasted over four and a half hours.

Gargulinski Public Hearing

The Board held a public hearing on the application of Ronald Gargulinski, 140 Providence Turnpike, for a Site Plan Review Special Permit to create office and warehouse space on property located on Route 146 at the Millbury/Sutton Town line.

Gargulinski told the board that he has been negotiating with a potential tenant, who he was not at liberty to identify, but whose business "has something to do with steel." According to Gargulinski, the tenant would operate a business that uses no chemicals or hazardous materials and would employ only three people.

Planning Board Chairwoman Anna Lewandowski then read a letter from Fire Chief Thomas Nault dated April 14, 1989 in which Nault stated that he reviewed the site plan submitted to him on April 10. "There was no water available for firefighting purposes at this site," the letter stated. "It is my understanding that this building has already been built. I have not seen or reviewed the building plans for this project. This is in direct violation of Section 113.5 of the Mass. State Building Codes. Due to this violation, I will not approve any site plan, nor will I sign any occupancy permit for this building."

Gargulinski told the board that he does not have town water but does have a well. He added that he has also upgraded the quality of the building materials, which are UL rated. "It's a steel building," he said. "There really isn't anything that can burn."

Continuing with their review of the project, Lewandowski then suggested that the dumpster be fenced in and that some of the parking spaces be relocated.

Gargulinski replied that if he added 50 feet to the lot line from the 300 foot frontage of his residence, which is adjacent to the structure, it would increase the frontage of the building and add more space for parking.

Hulseberg commented that doing so would also make the property "more conforming." He also said that this site plan was "probably the best site plan submitted to the Board to date."

In a general comment, Lewandowski said she would like to see attractive development along Rt. 146 in the future and not just simply "big metal buildings."

Board member Lillian Moore then maintained that the Board of Health had not approved the plans for the septic system. Gargulinski disagreed.

Moore said she would like to see another letter from the Fire Chief and the Board of Health. "We've got conflicting reports here, and I think we should get this all straightened out before we vote on it," she said.

On a motion by Lillian Moore, the board voted to continue the hearing.

Board member Ann Kniskern explained that if the Fire chief does not approve the building, Gargulinski would have to go to the State Fire Inspector, and "if it (the building) meets code, he'll approve it." She added that even if the Planning Board approves the building, Gargulinski could not occupy it unless it was approved by the State Fire Inspector.

Fox Bus Lines

At 8:45, the board held a public hearing on a preliminary subdivision plan entitled "Silver Fox Subdivision" for Fox Bus Lines. The property is located on the northerly side of Riverlin Street.

Representing Fox Bus Lines, Attorney Peter Keenan introduced engineer Bob Buckley and Stephen Fox. Keenan explained that Fox Bus Lines was seeking approval of a Preliminary Plan to construct a subdivision consisting of three residential lots on a roadway 420 feet long ending in a cul-de-sac and one lot on which will be constructed an 80 x 130 foot building which will house offices and a maintenance area. This building will be at the end of a 500 foot roadway extending from the cul-de-sac.

According to Fox, parking will be provided for the 20-25 people who will be on site. He said the company currently owns 14 buses and maintained that the property would not be used as a terminal since most of their business is done through the mail.

Buckley explained that the property contains approximately 25 acres on primarily hilly, wooded land through which runs a 300 foot and a 100 foot power line. The industrial lot contains 20 acres and the residential lots will all be over 40,000 square feet.

Fox Bus Lines has already appeared before the Zoning Board of Appeals and received approval for the three residential lots and the bus line building, which is permitted use. Richard Valentino, Chairman of the ZBA, was present for the hearing and reported that his board approved the variance for only three houses and only one garage/office, with the condition that the garage/office and roadway be constructed first.

Buckley said that the roadway was designed in accordance with rules and regulations, except for two waivers which they were seeking. The first was to have vertical granite curbing along the curves of the roadway and bituminous curbing on the straight sections instead of granite curbing

We know you are eager to help your child. You have expressed an interest in acquiring materials to work with your child at home to help in his/her speech and language development. We are offering two "hands-on" workshops at the Elmwood Street School Library on the following dates and time: Listening Skills and Concept Development, Thursday,

May 11, 6:45-9:15 p.m.; Reading Books and Storytelling, Wednesday, May 17, 6:45-9:15 p.m.

We are looking forward to seeing you at these times.

Thank You...

A sincere thanks to everyone who voted for me as a candidate for the Millbury Charter Commission. I will endeavor to uphold the trust you have given me.

Thank You...

We had our bake sale and flea market at Linden Apartments, 2 Pearl Street, today. It went over well - almost a sellout. Thanks to all that made cole slaw, potato salad, baked beans, and donated the clothes and books. The same ladies that live out of town helped again this year. Thank you all.

Now I have some unfinished business. On March 23rd, Margie Landry cooked a Corned Beef and Cabbage dinner by herself. The only help she had was to serve the food and clean up. I have been on the carpet for not writing to the Chronicle and thanking the girls. On March 20th, I buried my son, Lt. Clarence Alger. I assure you girls, I was in no mood to think of dinner or what was going on. I know you do good work and I apologize. I hope you all understand. Your dinner was very good, and thank you.

School Committee Cuts $126,801 from Budget

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - The Finance Committee held a meeting on April 26 to review and discuss ways of reducing the School Department Budget. Attending the meeting were three Selectmen, four members of the School Committee, the Superintendent of Schools and the School Business Manager.

Prior to the meeting, members of the School Committee, Superintendent Dr. Alfred A. Sylvia, and Business Manager Suzanne Pierce, met behind locked doors in the Superintendent's office at the High School. According to School Committee member Bruce Pease, the unscheduled meeting was held to prepare for the meeting with the finance committee.

Finance Committee Chairman Thomas Clawson explained that the purpose of his committee's meeting was to attempt to finalize the budget and come to a consensus with a figure everyone could live with before going before voters at the annual town meeting.

School Committee Chairman Chet Hanratty asked the Finance Committee to consider the Windle Field budget first as it was reduced from $20,000 to $16,000, with the $4,000 put into the athletic transportation account due to a 4% increase in transportation bids. The total for the athletic budget increased to $73,000 from $69,000. Hanratty noted that the new figure did not affect the bottom line.

Hanratty asked the Finance Committee if they had a recommendation for a warrant article for a mini bus. Clawson replied that no final recommendation has been made as yet. Hanratty said that if the mini-van did not pass as an article, the bus would be funded somewhere in the operating school department budget. Pierce explained that the state will not allow the school department to use the 1984 model after this June because of its age. A hand out sheet supplied to the board shows a savings over a 3 year period of $17,000 by purchase of a mini bus as compared to contracting the service out for a three year period.

Hanratty supplied a handout showing mandated FY'90 budget costs totalling $1,354,136, over which the school department has very little control:

- Pupil Transportation - $291,900
 - Custodial Services and Supplies - $338,989
 - Heat, Electricity, Water, Gas - $178,905
 - Maintenance, Service & Supplies - $198,898
 - Veterans Pension/Insurance - $35,300
 - Vocational Education - $47,156
 - Special Education Tuition - $262,988
- The total figure represents 20% of the budget.

It was also noted that salaries contracted through collective bargaining agreements total 80.4% of the operating budget.

Hanratty maintained that the $300,000 cut requested by the Finance Committee could not be met as it would adversely effect programs. He also said that the school committee would fight further cuts on the floor of the town meeting.

Hanratty then asked for the total free cash available to the town. He said he understood $600,000 would be available. Clawson replied that $1.2 million is in free cash but would be voted at town meeting to reduce the tax rate.

"You will have a blood bath on the floor if you ask for cuts totalling $300,000," Hanratty said.

- A handout dated April 25, 1989 shows possible budget cuts that would amount to $126,801:
- One maintenance person - $20,000
 - One music teacher - $20,554
 - One High School guidance counselor - $35,925
 - One Elementary teacher - $25,322
 - Maintenance Account
 - "2000 account" - $20,000
 - "4000 account" - 3,000
 - "7000 account" - 2,000

Hanratty said that further cuts would involve the loss of one business teacher and one industrial arts teacher. He also maintained that, with respect to salaries, Millbury teachers were way behind other towns in the Valley, but with increases in pay would rank about 4th in the valley area.

"With 2 1/2, we lost 47 teachers. We lost experienced teachers who went elsewhere," he said. Hanratty said that, with the new 3 year contract with the teachers, the 1st step of the three year contract is a 5.9% salary increase.

In response to a question from Finance Committee member John Green, Sylvia said that class size at the elementary level is 24.25 students per teacher, 18 students per teacher at the Middle School, and 12-14 students per teacher at the High School. He said that the smaller classes at the high school offered higher levels of academics.

"We cannot afford not to offer classes if we are to have a comprehensive high school," Hanratty said. "Our students get into good schools."

Sylvia said that three years ago there were four or five buildings in use. That number is now reduced to three. He said that the closing of the Center and Dorothy Manor schools also meant the loss of one principal, an assistant principal, and a secretarial position.

Pierce reported that heating levels were reduced, offering savings in heating costs. "The Dorothy Manor School is presently rented. There is a reduction in the utilities account which is reflected in this year's proposed budget," she said.

While there, they were congratulated by an assembly of CENTURY 21 dignitaries and guests which included CENTURY 21 CEO Dick Loughlin, who offered the keynote address, along with trainer Tom Hopkins and President Gerald Ford.

They were updated on new and ongoing programs such as state-of-the-art automation systems, sophisticated client follow-up, full-service relocation capabilities for corporate and military clients and numerous sales and management training systems. There were also a wide range of educational and motivational sessions designed to assist CENTURY 21 brokers and sales associates in providing the best possible services to their real estate clients.

Conventioners were entertained by singer Barbara Mandrell, and Pat Boone presented a special tribute on behalf of the Easter Seal Society, acknowledging the CENTURY 21 system's position as top corporate sponsor of the charity for the 10th consecutive year.

Upon their return, Michael Jones announced to the staff that, in 1988, "the CENTURY 21 System was still the top real estate brokerage organization, participating in more than $65 billion worth of transactions."

CENTURY 21 King & King is located at 188 Worcester Providence Turnpike in Sutton.

Inducted into Honor Society

NORTH CAROLINA - Sherri Sadowski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Sadowski of Sutton, was inducted into Sigma Delta Pi, the National Honor Society in Spanish, on Wednesday, April 5 at Elon College.

Sigma Delta Pi honors students who attain excellence in knowledge of the Spanish language, literature and culture. The society also exists to promote friendly relations and mutual respect between English-speaking countries and those of Hispanic speech.

To become a member of the Sigma Delta Pi, candidates must have had at least three years of the language at the college level and a Hispanic literature course. Inductees must have earned a grade of B or higher in the courses.

Elon College is an independent, coeducational liberal arts college in North Carolina with an enrollment of approximately 33,000 students.

Commission on Worker Availability in Long Term Care for the Elderly

WORCESTER - Rep. Richard T. Moore (D-Uxbridge) participated in a public hearing recently by the Special Commission on Worker Availability in Long Term Care for the Elderly in the Worcester City Council Chamber. Moore serves as a member of the Commission, which heard testimony from a number of Central Massachusetts elder care providers.

The purpose of the commission is to find ways to increase the number of workers in long term care, both home care and nursing home care. The commission has been meeting since September of 1988 to share ideas and experience in the areas of wages and benefits, training and supervision, education and advancement opportunities, working conditions, job image, and quality of care. This information, along with the testimony given, will be used in preparing the commission's final report to the legislature. The report will make legislative recommendations on these subjects and on funding levels for elderly services.

The commission also aims to increase the visibility of long term care workers and their needs to the general public. The five hearings being held across the state this month and the media coverage of these events will help accomplish this goal.

The commission was established and funded by the legislature in FY89 at the urging of advocates and providers of long term care services to the elderly.

along the entire roadway. The second waiver asked that the concrete sidewalks along the full length of the roadway on both sides be replaced with bituminous sidewalks that abut all of the lots.

In answer to questions from board members, Buckley said that all lots have the required 100 foot frontage and have passed witnessed soil testing. He also said that there are wetlands on the site, but that they have stayed 100 feet away from them.

An April 14 report from the Fire Chief stated that he had reviewed the site plan and listed two concerns: 1. there is no water available for firefighting, and 2. the access road is long. The letter said it would be necessary to know what type of building is planned for this site in order to give a more specific recommendation.

The Board of Health also sent a letter, stating that final approval of the plan will not be given until subsurface septic design plans have been reviewed by the board.

The meeting was then opened to public comment. Riverlin Street resident Hank Croteau asked about drainage and the cost of the proposed homes. With respect to drainage, Buckley answered that they would be eliminating some of the drainage flow from Riverlin Street.

Fox explained that, as part of an agreement with the ZBA, the residential homes could not be constructed until the bus line building was completed. He said the homes would be in a price range similar to other homes that have been built along Riverlin Street.

Board member Terry Burke Dotson expressed her concern that the land behind the proposed bus facility could be developed at a later date. Buckley replied that the nature of the land, and other obstacles, would prevent development in the future. He also stated that a traffic study was not necessary because Fox only owns 14 buses and the site would not be used as a terminal.

Replying to further questions from Croteau, Buckley said the buses would be housed outside but that they would not run all night in the cold weather as many diesel powered vehicles do. Repairs to the buses will be made at the rear of the maintenance building and should not be heard by the neighbors, Buckley said.

Lewandowski then said the planning board has been unbending with respect to the type of curbing which they require. She said they have fought to keep the conditions relating to curbing and have gone to court over them. In light of this, she said she would be opposed to granting a waiver.

Dotson then asked that the land which Fox claims is unbuildable be donated to the town. Fox said he would consider her request, with Attorney Keenan saying, "If it's to the Town's benefit, we'll look into it."

When considering whether to vote on the Preliminary Plan, Lewandowski explained that approval of a Preliminary Plan does not mean approval of a Definitive Plan. "One reason for the preliminary process," she stated, "is (for the developers) to go to the town with ideas and many times if these problems are addressed in the preliminary process, they save time and engineering costs when you apply for a Definitive."

The board considered postponing their vote until such time as more information could be received from the fire chief. Hulseberg pointed out that the board had only 45 days to vote on the plan, which meant that the board would have to vote by May 7.

On a motion by board member Arthur Moore, the board voted 4-1 to accept the preliminary plan without the waivers of granite curbing and cement sidewalks.

F&G Public Hearing

At 9:45, the board held a public hearing on the application of Louis Fantasia, F&G Construction, for a Site Plan Review Special Permit to operate a construction company at 28 Wales Street.

Fantasia's engineer, Hossein Haghanizadeh, explained that Fantasia owns 4.34 acres at the end of Wales Street. He said that plans for a building, which is presently constructed and standing on the Wales Street site, were submitted to the building inspector and a building permit obtained. Haghanizadeh then said Fantasia was notified that he must submit a site plan because there are more than 10 parking spaces at the site. (The by-laws require that a site plan review is required when 10 or more parking spaces are provided.) The revised site plan submitted to the board shows 22 parking spaces. Haghanizadeh went on to explain that Fantasia constructed the building for the purpose of moving his construction business to Millbury.

Haghanizadeh also said that they have already received approval from the Conservation Commission to extend water and sewer lines to the site. The sewer lines are already in place but the water lines have yet to be installed. Haghanizadeh said they have already obtained permission from the Sewer Commission, the Conservation Commission and the water company.

Lewandowski noted that the planning board has not received any communication from the Conservation Commission.

Haghanizadeh then said that Fantasia has already received a building permit and that a site plan was submitted to the board at the time they applied for the building permit, "but I guess it wasn't adequate enough," he said. (Haghanizadeh said he was not the engineer on the project at that time.)

Lewandowski asked if the original plan was submitted to the Planning Board, to which Haghanizadeh replied, "There was never a public hearing but they obtained a building permit."

Lewandowski then questioned Haghanizadeh on the surface of the parking lot. Haghanizadeh replied, "It would be gravel, so we're not planning any drainage." He further explained that the building would house some of the equipment and the offices of the construction company, with heavy equipment housed both inside and outside.

Board member Arthur Moore asked what would happen if any of the 20 to 25 pieces of heavy equipment leaked diesel fuel on the unpaved ground. Haghanizadeh replied that, in the event that should occur, they would take that area up and replace it with new gravel.

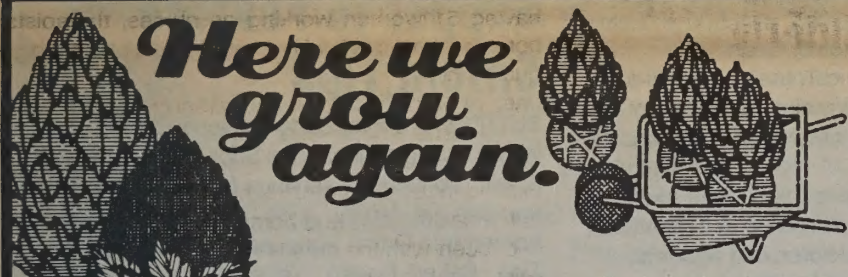

Lewandowski then noted that the building is located in an Industrial II Zone and that the plans do not fall within the permitted use in this zone.

"When I bought this piece of land," Fantasia said, "I brought a plan up, gave it to the building department, and they presented it to the planning board to see if it was all right to do. As far as I know, it came back saying it was all right to build up there. I told them exactly what was going in there, and I got a building permit."

Board member Ann Kniskern, who also works in the Building Inspector's office, said that three plans were presented to the Building Inspector: one went to the Planning Board, one to the fire department, and the building inspector kept a copy. After six weeks, she said, the building department hadn't received any communication from the MILLBURY - Residents at the Centerview, Pearl Street, and Colonial Housing complexes will find a new collection of Millbury Public Library books in their activity rooms. These collections feature many popular titles including mysteries, romances, general fiction, and large print books.

New Collection of Books at Housing Complexes

The library asks that you remember to return your selections to the activity room when you finish your reading. Collections will be changed again on July 20.

Teacher Appreciation Week

The first week in May is Teacher Appreciation Week. To show this community's appreciation of its many dedicated teachers, the Millbury School Connection planned a special day for them on May 2. All teachers were presented with a carnation, and were invited to the teacher's room where a table had ben set with fruit and pastry. Also placed on the tables were signs that read "You are appreciated by everyone! Thank you."

Teachers today are called upon to do much more than teach a subject. One of the goals of the School Connection is to show teachers, in a real way, that we want to be considered partners in our children's education. They deserve all of our respect and help in preparing our children for the many challenges they will face after leaving school.

Millbury School Connection

Lecture on New England Carousels

MILLBURY - On Sunday, May 7, at 1:00 p.m., the Millbury Public Library will present "New England Carousels: Their History and Art," a lecture and slide tape presentation by Eleanor B. Orsini.

"Everybody loves carousels," Orsini said, "because they excite so many senses - sight, sound, and movement - all at the same time. The dancing lights, the kaleidoscope of color, the dizzying movement of the horses, and the spirited music of the grand old band organs all add up to a wondrous magic that enchants both children and adults alike."

Of the thousands of hand-carved wooden animals that were created during the Golden Age of Carousels (c. 1870-1930) and that still whirl on operating machines or stand in private collections, no two can be found that are exactly alike. Orsini delights in pointing out the exquisite carving and infinite variety of detail to be found on carousel animals.

Being particularly intrigued by their origin and history, Orsini shows how carousels date back to Medieval Europe "when Knighthood was in flower," how this unique expression of the art of the woodcarver came to the U.S.A. and flourished, how the Depression sounded the death knell of the industry, how carousel art has skyrocketed in value among collectors, and how local support groups today are rescuing many carousels from destruction.

Orsini holds a B.A. degree in History of Art from Mt. Holyoke College and a Master's degree in Fine Arts from Radcliffe. She is a member of the National Carousel Association and the American Carousel Society. Her vivid photographs of carousel art in New England form the basis of her slide presentation on the subject.

Clawson said that a look at past budgets for heating indicate that the account was over-budgeted, with the difference being transferred to other accounts.

It was noted that the school committee is allowed to transfer monies to other accounts which is not always true for general town government.

Hanratty said that heating costs have fluctuated in response to the severity of winters.

Pierce also said that oil prices can fluctuate and indicated that the present budget allots money based upon 65 cents per gallon. "We don't know what can happen," she said. "If it goes up over 65 cents, we could have a problem."

A question then arose over the institution of the new administrative position of Curriculum Coordinator. John Green said he had heard that the coordinator's position had been turned down at town meeting but was instituted by the school committee.

Hanratty and Sylvia both explained that a task force was formed after low test assessment scores were recorded by Millbury students. They said the task force had made the position of curriculum coordinator its No. one recommendation. Hanratty said that the school committee approved the recommendation. "It was the best dollars spent," Hanratty maintained.

Sylvia said that, as a result of several teacher retirements and the rehiring of new personnel at lower salary levels, money from the budget was found to cover the salary of the curriculum coordinator. He also said that the coordinator has developed several grant programs which have brought monies into the local system.

Clawson asked if some of the coordinator's salary could be written off through the grants. Sylvia replied that could not be done unless the coordinator was directly involved in administering a program.

Clawson then asked if any budget cuts could be made under "Administration." Sylvia replied that administrators' contracts have one more year to go and that the account is level funded in this year's budget.

Clawson then asked if any cuts could be made in the non-teaching positions. Sylvia said "No," indicating that the present clerical and secretarial positions were crucial to school operations.

A question then arose on enrollment. The projected levels of enrollment for 89-92 were reported as stable, but Sylvia said that with affordable homes projected for the town in 1991 and 1992, the enrollment could increase again.

It was noted that the Maintenance of Buildings account has not changed or declined over the last several years.

Jude Cristo, Chairman of the Board of Selectmen, said that some outside maintenance will be required at the Center School building, which has been turned over to the town. Cristo asked if the School Department, which maintained the outside grounds in the past, could continue to do so. Hanratty replied that something could be worked out to provide some assistance.

Cristo said that the selectmen did not want to hire a person for maintenance until the building is fully functional.

Selectman Roland Lachance then questioned the budget funding under Chapter 766, noting that in the past money was budgeted with non-expended monies returned to the town.

It was explained by Hanratty that monies are and can be transferred to other accounts. He said that, in one case, the cost for special services for one student would cost up to $40,000 under state mandated Chapter 766.

Lachance then asked Sylvia to update his recollection as to the number of teachers presently employed and the student enrollment. Lachance said that approximately 15 years ago, when he served on the school committee, there were 143 teachers, 11 administrators and 2500 plus students.

Sylvia replied that presently there are 1500 students in the system, with 125 teachers and 9 administrators.

Hanratty then said that the school committee was presenting a budget of $6,813,807, a 7% increase.

Clawson asked the selectmen if they had any opinions or further concerns.

Cristo asked about the Town's total financial picture, with Clawson replying that warrant articles would need another look.

Lachance said he would like to see the school committee do more homework. "Do you really need a counselor at the elementary level?" he asked.

Sylvia replied that it was critical as there has been a growing number of single parent homes as well as increases in child abuse. To lose a counselor there would have a terrible impact on programs, he said.

Lachance asked, "That person is doing the work of a special needs teacher?" Sylvia replied, "Yes, definitely."

Lachance said, "I still believe you can do more homework. Sylvia replied, "Be more specific."

Lachance said he would be glad to make an appointment with Sylvia to discuss specifics.

Clawson then asked if it would be possible to cut $25,000 more, for a total of $125,000, in non-teaching areas.

Hanratty in turn asked if the Finance Committee would support the school department if they ran out of money.

Clawson replied, "To the best of our ability, yes."

Hanratty asked for five minutes for his committee to leave the room and caucus to see if any further cuts could be made. Upon returning, Hanratty said that his committee submitted a budget with a 7% increase, which is much lower than the original 11% budget. "We have done our homework," he said.

The Finance Committee then voted unanimously to support the $6,813,807 School Department Budget request.

Around The Town & Golden Agers Update

By Lillian C. Sheehan

CENTERVIEW APARTMENTS: the next thing on the Agenda for Centerview is their annual Fair to be held this coming Saturday, May 6. Doors open at 10 a.m. and close at 2 p.m. There will be a nice variety of baked goods, including Phebe's home baked beans, crafts, books, used clothing, odds and ends, etc. Coffee will be available to shoppers.

Best Wishes to the following who are celebrating May birthdays: Theodore Renaud, Raymond Fink, G. Ray Pickett, Alice Hassett, Edna Boucher, Aline Besaw, Elden Flagg, Mae Plante, and our "girl Friday," Frances Hartigan.

A Mother's Day dinner is being planned for May 13th.

COLONIAL APARTMENTS: the following celebrate their birthdays in May: Urbana Perea, Norman Saucier, Helen Mankovitch, Peggy Casputis, and Ruth Braney who is presently in a nursing home.

Best Wishes for a speedy recovery to Mary Scannell, who recently fell in her apartment and injured her ribs.

LINDEN APARTMENTS: Happy Birthday to Ann Devoe, Marjorie Landry, and Alice Davis of Linden Apartments, and to Rita Woodward, not a resident there, but one of their helpers when needed.

To all the above, and any Senior citizen not mentioned specifically, best wishes on your birthdays and many happy returns of your special day!!

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Taurus the Bull rules the neck and throat. Taureans tend to be patient, persistent workers who will see a task to completion. Most of them have a great love for home and believe in enjoying what they have earned, although they also tend to conserve part of their bounty. Another remarkable quality of the Taureans is their intense loyalty and devotion.

"MAY DAY," or "Beltane" is the first day of May and is a celebration of the growing season. For good luck, people washed in the morning dew, gathered flowers to adorn themselves, watched the sun come up, and danced around the Maypole. A May Queen was selected to rule the day; by night, youths paired off to dance around bonfires and celebrate the rites of the season.

MAY FELLOWSHIP DAY will be celebrated on Friday, May 5th, at St. Brigid's Church. A potluck supper will be served at 6:30 p.m., followed by a Worship Service. All churches in the area are invited to participate.

REMINDER: there will be a meeting of the Millbury Arts Council on Monday, May 8th, at 7:30 p.m. in the Millbury Town Hall.

EAGLE SCOUT AWARD: Mrs. Edna Ouellette will be attending the Court of Honor Ceremony when Dennis John Laperriere receives the "Eagle Scout Award" in Largo, Florida. Dennis is a member of Boy Scout Troop 465 of St. Patrick's Parish. He is the son of Edmond and Karen Sheehan Laperriere. Proud grandparents are both Edna and Frank and Lillian Sheehan.

THE MILLBURY GOLDEN AGE CLUB will not meet on Tuesday, May 9, because of the trip that they are taking.

The second and third graders accompanied by their teachers, Audrey Roberts and Dorothy Marchessault, attended a special performance of the "Velveteen Rabbit," which was presented for area school children at Mechanics Hall. The return trip included a stop at McDonalds.

Sister Elizabeth Morin and grade six visited Higgins Armory Museum. The Great Hall, with its gothic arches, the ancient arms and armor, and the artifacts, reinforced the knowledge gained from their Social Studies lessons.

Then it was on to Pizza Hut for a party. The class participated in the Book It! National Reading Incentive Program which was introduced by the restaurant several years ago to encourage children to read more. The teacher sets monthly reading goals and if all of the students meet the criteria in any four of the five program months, they are given a free pizza party.

Training Session at Abby's House

WORCESTER - Abby's House, a volunteer organization offering a shelter, day/lunch program, thrift shop, and a food pantry for homeless and formerly homeless women and children, will hold a training session on Tuesday, May 9, from 7-9:30 p.m. for all women interested in staffing one of the programs.

Call Tess or Elaine at 756-5486 to register, or write to Abby's at 21-23 Crown Street, Worcester, MA 01609.

Recreation Sites

WALTHAM - Recreation sites at 31 U.S. Army Corps of Engineers flood control dams in New England open for the summer season on May 20 and will remain open until mid-September. The areas, located in Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont, offer a wide variety of recreational pursuits, including swimming, picnicking, fishing, boating, hiking and camping.

The Engineers have established fees for the reservation and use of selected facilities and lands at these sites. The fees cover reservations for picnic shelters and group campgrounds, obtaining special use permits for group activities, and for the use of campsites. Picnic and beach areas, trails, launch ramps and fishing areas are still available free of charge.

The fees, which will become effective with the opening of the recreational areas in May, range from $30 to $75 for reserving developed picnic shelters, less than $8.50 for individual campsites, and $30 for group campsites.

Information about facilities and fees at specific sites are available by contacting Bob Heald at the New England Division, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, 424 Trapelo Road, Waltham, MA 02254-9149 (telephone 617-647-8305).

If you're reading this column, then that means you value your ability to read. It means that you can understand the English language by interpreting its written symbols. Imagine what it's like to be an adult and not to be able to do this - not to be able to read. Think of the struggle you would face day-to-day, doing what many take for granted: following road signs, ordering from a menu, filling out applications, following recipes, using the telephone book, taking medicine. The list goes on and on. How would you cope? You would; many do. You would probably develop strategies to subtly let others do your reading for you like indicating a misunderstanding or intentionally leaving your glasses at home. You would get by like this, but your inability would chase you at every turn.

Adult illiteracy is rampant in this country - in this state. It's found in intellectual college towns as well as the suburban bedroom communities. It cuts across the class lines. And don't let anyone kid you, it's here in Millbury.

Movements in adult basic education have accelerated in the 1980's. Barbara Bush has made illiteracy an important issue and promises to bring it to the forefront of public attention. But even before the Bush administration took up the crusade, Massachusetts was taking steps to deal with adult illiteracy in the state. The creation of the Commonwealth Literacy Campaign was an important step in this effort. Other state agencies, as well as schools, business and nonprofit organizations, have also responded with funding and educational opportunities. Here in greater Worcester, Catholic Charities and the Commonwealth Literacy Campaign are leading the way advocating services for adults with basic education problems. The primary way they do this is by managing a volunteer program that trains and supports tutors teaching adult basic education and English as a second language.

The Millbury Public Library has fallen in step with the adult basic education movement in its own small way. The library has started a collection of adult basic educational materials. This collection is located in the adult nonfiction section of the library. At present, it consists of workbooks, teachers' guides and instructive manuals covering the basics of tutoring. The library also has a collection of approximately thirty high interest/low reading level paperback fiction titles. Computer software and books-on-tapes will be added in the near future.

If you're thinking of being an adult literacy volunteer tutor, or if you're one already, both TEACH SOME TO READ and TUTOR are useful books for you to read. They are step-by-step guides to teaching reading to adults. In addition to providing information on successful techniques to use with students, they also provide diagnostic tools and sample lesson plans.

Teachers' manuals and workbooks provide step-by-step instructions for tutors and exercises for them to use with learners. The best of them are designed to be used in a one-on-one tutoring session. The CHALLENGER adult reading series, volumes one through eight, is one of our most popular workbook titles in this area. This eight book program integrates the rudiments of reading, writing and reasoning skills designed to meet the learning needs of adults. Reading selections, including excerpts from such writers as Studs Terkel, Mark Twain, and Lorraine Hansberry, are included in this series.

The FOCUS ON PHONICS series provides a phonics approach to reading. This four volume series supplements the CHALLENGER series mentioned above, but it can be used independently.

WRITE ALL ABOUT focuses in on techniques to use to teach writing skills. Writing and reading exercises are geared to adult readers that read on a fifth grade level. The library has both the teacher's guide and student workbook.

In May, the library will be adding a personal computer to the adult services section of the library. This computer will be available for use by library patrons. At that time, the library will make available computer software including software to meet basic education needs. Also for new readers, look for books-on-tapes. These are cassette tapes of popular books with accompanying books.

In addition to print materials and computer software to support tutors, the library also provides space in its meeting room for tutors to meet privately with their adult learners. Our meeting room can be scheduled for most evenings, Tuesday through Thursday, and at various times during the day. You can call the library at 865-1181 to reserve the meeting room.

planning board or the fire department. "Nothing was said or done. He came back in and was given a building permit," she said.

"My whole point," Lewandowski said, "is that now, it's not conforming; it's not a permitted use in that area. So it's something that has to be taken care of, which means that you (Fantasia) would have to go to the Zoning Board of Appeals for a variance and, even given the permit, a site plan should have been done because of the number of parking spaces."

Board members then recalled that Fantasia had appeared before the board for an ANR plan for a subdivision but no site plan was submitted. The building permit was issued April 16, 1988, according to Haghazadeh.

Hulseberg read the permitted uses for an Industrial II zone at the request of Fantasia. Haghazadeh in turn commented, "Every time, it's something else. You give the permit to people and later on say we read the book and this is one more thing that we should do. It should be a definite decision to be made on this. It seems it's an ongoing thing going on, every time there's something else."

"He has a building permit,"

Lewandowski responded. "At the time the building permit was issued, we did not have a town planner. We did not have anyone in the office. We had a secretary who would take things and give them to us. We met every two weeks. We remember doing an ANR; I don't recall going through a site plan review."

Haghazadeh again said that Fantasia had submitted a site plan.

Lewandowski responded that the board did not do a site plan review.

Haghazadeh then said, "He (Fantasia) has been dealing with the town in good faith. He has a good reputation working in Shrewsbury, now he has moved his operation to this town. He is trying to deal with the town in good faith and everything that has been required of him, he has done."

William Rogers whose home is located next to the Fantasia building on Wales Street, then addressed the board. "This fellow here (Haghazadeh) tells you one thing. But," Rogers said, addressing Fantasia, "'Pinky,' (Fantasia) you haven't been honest with us." Turning back to the Board, Rogers continued, "He is renting. They're coming in on Sundays taking out heavy equipment on trailers, and he told us definitely there would be nobody working up there on a Sunday. And this is what he's doing, and I told him, and he said, 'I didn't know that; I'll stop it.' They run it on

Thank You...

Cub Scouts from Pack 109 surround their display at the Millbury Savings Bank.

On April 26, Cub Scout Pack 109 from the Millbury Federated Church, held its last regular pack meeting for the 1988-1989 season. As of September, the pack is in need of a new Cub Master. Thank You to Rod McLeod, our outgoing Cub Master, for three years of service. The boys worked hard this year earning their badges: Bobcat, Wolf and Bear, gold and silver arrows, Webelos activity badges, and other awards. Every boy advanced at least one rank during the year. Congratulations to all of you.

It was a wonderful and busy year with all the den projects that were done, the Halloween and Christmas parties, Toys for Tots campaign, trip to the Telegram and Gazette newspaper office, Pinewood Derby, bake sales, Blue and Gold Banquets where Thunder Cloud entertained us, the great performance by John McDonough and the Pumpnickel Puppets, the display at the Millbury Savings Bank and the "Scout Show", ending it all with the Soap Boat Derby where all who participated went home winners.

Of course the year cannot be ended without saying thank you to all who helped make this year an unqualified success. Our last meeting before summer will be the Memorial Day Parade. We look forward to seeing you there. Have a nice summer.

a Sunday; they come up there any time they want. It's not like this fellow (Haghanizadeh) says here, 'they're going to come in in the morning, and they're going to come out at night.' They come anytime they want. Not him (Fantasia), but now he's renting out to somebody else when he told us it was just going to be him and Mackoul Electric."

Rogers said he was told by Fantasia that he (Fantasia) would bring gas, water and sewers up the street. "This fellow (Haghanizadeh) makes it sound beautiful," Rogers said, "but that isn't how it is. He told us he wasn't going to put the water up now unless we want to pay the $25,000 to hook it up. He told us, when we signed to put the sewers, that he was going to put that there and we trusted him."

Rogers said that, for the past twelve months, the area has looked "like a bomb hit the place." Explaining that he has lived on Wales Street for 50 years, Rogers remarked, "We had that place beautiful, and he'll (Fantasia) tell you that, too. Now, the Millbury dump looks 50 times better than what he did there. He cut every tree down he could cut down; everything is cleared out. They put some stones in the brook; it's almost like rerouted. I wish someone could come up and see it and know what it looked like before."

Rogers again maintained that the site was not being used solely by F&G Construction. "This fellow (Haghanizadeh) makes it sound like it's just F&G Construction. It isn't; they're bringing other trucks in there, and they're parking them there, and they're bringing them there at night."

Rogers said his daughter was told that when the building was constructed it would not be visible to the neighbors. "Well," he said, "you've got to be pretty darn blind if you can't see this thing that he put in. I understood when he talked that it was going to be further back and he didn't put it further back where he was going to put it. It's a sore eye for everybody and our property isn't worth a damn up there now."

Wales Street resident Alan Garden told the board that Fantasia widened the road to where it is now in front of his house, making it necessary for him to park his cars so they almost touch his front porch. He also said he asked Fantasia, before Winter, to fill in the potholes. "He (Fantasia) said, 'Don't worry; don't worry; don't worry!' Now it's going to be May, and I still can't park my cars. How could you people allow something like this?" Garden asked.

Echoing Lewandowski's

comments, board member Arthur Moore said he couldn't recall a site plan review. "When we do (a site plan review), we notify abutters. We didn't have a town planner, but we've got enough sense to know we've got to notify

The oil boiler it pays to buy.

The Weil-McLain 68 high-efficiency oil boiler can pay for itself in a few short years with the money it saves by using less oil. The 68 operates at over 84% efficiency, compared to only 60% efficiency for an old, inefficient oil boiler. That means the 68 uses far less oil to produce the same amount of heat. And the 68 oil boiler will provide uniform comfort, wall to wall, floor to ceiling, regardless of outside temperature.

Call us today. Find out how comfortably you could save with Weil-McLain!

Diabetes Education Facility Dedicated

WORCESTER - Local and regional health care professionals, community leaders, and guests gathered recently for a first-hand look at the region's newest health education facility, the Diabetes Foundation of New England (DFNE).

The event marked the dedication and formal opening of the recently completed facility, which occupies the second floor of the new medical office building at 67 Belmont Street in Worcester. Professional orientation and patient classes are scheduled to begin in May.

Dr. Robert F. Williams, President and Director of the non-profit foundation, described the role of the DFNE as "providing and promoting outpatient education regarding successful self-management of diabetes, in order to improve the health of those with the disorder and reduce total health care costs."

The DFNE provides state-of-the-art facilities and equipment for health education in a setting that is easily accessible to thousands of diabetic patients from all points in Central New England. In Worcester County alone, some 40,000 individuals out of a current population of 660,000 are diabetic, a one-in-sixteen ratio.

The education program offers a complete, five-day course on the nature and management of diabetes, with the goal of providing confidence and motivation for patients to integrate self-care into their lives. The course will be offered to people with diabetes, their families, and health care professionals.

A complete educational regimen is provided by a team including a physician, podiatrist, nutritionist, psychologist, ophthalmologist, nurse, and social worker. Group and individual instruction will cover diet, exercise, medication, home glucose monitoring and urine testing.

State-of-the-art teaching methods are employed. Educational materials will include audio-visual instruments such as videocassettes, slide presentations, and computer-assisted educational programs. Lunches will provide further education in diet and nutrition.

The accommodations include a large, multi-purpose meeting room with rear-screen audio-visual projection, a self-study room with individual carrels, an interview and observation room for professionals, laboratories, dining facilities, reception area, and education and administrative offices.

Among the special features of the DFNE will be an eye camera, provided by the Worcester Memorial Foundation for the Blind, to detect complications of diabetes that affect the retina of the eye.

Because diet is extremely important in managing diabetes, a unique aspect of the DFNE will be a complete, small grocery "store." Patients will learn to properly evaluate and "shop" for various foods, in terms of carbohydrates, fats, and proteins, and have their selections rated by the staff dietician.

Anyone interested in obtaining further information may call 755-3117.

Albanian Festival

WORCESTER - The Albanian Festival IV, a three-day event, will take place June 2-4 under a huge tent (rain or shine) on the site of St. Mary's Assumption Albanian Orthodox Church, 535 Salisbury Street. Parking is available at Assumption College, across from the Church, with a shuttle bus available.

The Festival will feature the following: barbecued lamb shish-ka-bab; spinach pies; layered and buttered nut-filled Baklava and other confections; a Mediterranean Marketplace/Bazaar, with all hand-made items donated by the parishioners; ethnic music; dancers and displays of old and new Albanian artifacts; children's tent area with games and other activities; flower shop; flea market; silent auction; and Albanian Coffee House.

Admission is free. The festival will be open on Friday, June 2, from 5 p.m. to midnight, Saturday, June 3 from 10 a.m. to midnight, and Sunday, June 4, from noon to 9 p.m.

Subcommittee Formed

WESTBORO - Former State Senate candidate John H. (Jack) Roche has announced the formation of a Regional Activities subcommittee of the Westborough Republican Town Committee. Roche has been named Chairman of the new subcommittee.

"We were amazed at the number of voters from other towns who stopped at our trailer on East Main Street during the November Presidential Campaign," Roche said. "We had visitors from as far away as Framingham, Natick, Leicester and Worcester, all asking for more information on Republican candidates. Several even volunteered their time and services to staff the trailer and help out on Election day. It was apparent that the voting public really wants the two party system to work here in Massachusetts. Our subcommittee is a reaction to that expression of need."

Roche said the subcommittee has been recognized by the Massachusetts State Republican Committee and is chartered with mobilizing the towns in the State Senatorial District which includes Hopkinton, Hopedale, Grafton, Northboro, Sutton, Millbury, Worcester (wards 5-8), Leicester and Upton. The purpose of the subcommittee is to identify local Republican activists and Town committees in each, and to work with them to create their own grass roots organizations.

Other members of the subcommittee are State Committeewoman Gloria Guagnini, Arthur Shattuck, Loris Ruff, Karen Paulin, and Richard Guagnini.

Anyone interested in additional information about the subcommittee or its activities can contact Roche at 870-5759 or Randy Williams, chairman of the Republican Town Committee at 366-1843.

Sutton Woolies

SUTTON - Sutton Woolies are off to a 3-0 start in the competitive statewide MAYS League. The Woolies, an "Under 10" soccer team recruited from the Millbury Soccer program, are sponsored by Ray's Barber Shop and are playing in conjunction with the Sutton Soccer Club.

The Sutton Woolies have beaten Spencer B, 6-1, Oxford A, 2-1, and Oxford B, 5-1. Team members are Derek Boudreau, Brendan Brady, Michael Couture, Justin Horton, David Jannery, Jason Langway, Stephen Miller, Sarah Nason, Michael Russell, Matthew Waters, and Travis Williams. Team coaches are Bill and Joe Brady, father and son. This team of young Millbury soccer players has the potential to be a strong team for the Sutton Soccer Club within the Worcester County area.

Public Health Council Approves New Belmont Home

BOSTON - Senator John P. Houston (D-Worcester) recently congratulated Belmont Home Administrator Arthur Tirella for clearing the way for a new Belmont Home facility.

On April 18, the Public Health Council approved the determination of need for a 184-bed multi-level building. The new home will replace the existing facility which was originally built in 1918 as a tuberculosis hospital.

"The City of Worcester will finally have a building as good as the care it provides," Houston said. "This new facility will help us address the pressing need for long-term care in Central Massachusetts."

According to Tirella, the new 70,000 square foot building will be smaller but better designed than the existing one. One of the major improvements will be the inclusion of air conditioning.

Houston commended Tirella, the residents, and the staff for their hard work on the approval process. "This is a critical step in the improvement of long-term care for our senior citizens," he said. "I am especially pleased because the Belmont Home has such an outstanding record of service to lower-income seniors." More than 99% of the home's residents are Medicaid recipients.

Early Detection of Childhood Hearing Loss is Crucial

BOSTON - Although childhood hearing impairments can be difficult to detect, specialists at the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary in Boston say early diagnosis of hearing loss is crucial.

"With early detection you can actually prevent problems," said Infirmary Audiologist Barbara Herrmann, Ph.D. "If you can get sound to the auditory system early, the child may not fall behind in speech and language development."

Unfortunately, in the United States the average age that children with hearing loss are diagnosed is 18 months. "That is pretty late," Herrmann said, "because the children need that first year of listening in order to produce their first words. And if they are not listening, things will not develop as they should."

Although physicians perform basic checks to gauge infants' reactions to sound at birth, it is difficult to detect hearing loss with simple observation of a child's behavior.

"These checks may pick up a really deaf child, but there are many degrees of hearing loss," Herrmann said. "And children are so clever that they will compensate for their hearing loss at a very early stage."

Several years ago, Herrmann and her colleagues at the Infirmary helped develop an infant hearing screener which can detect hearing loss even in newborn babies. Although an automated screener is now commercially available, its use is slowly spreading to physicians' offices and hospital nurseries.

After newborn screening, Herrmann recommends that children's hearing be screened at about age two or two-and-a-half and that young school-age children be screened once a year. If parents at any time suspect hearing loss, they should have the child's hearing tested immediately.

There are several signs of hearing impairment which parents can look for Herrmann said. The most obvious is that the child is not responding to sound, but even inconsistent response to sound is something which should be examined. Each child may react differently to his or her hearing loss. Some may seem inattentive and withdrawn, while others may misbehave.

"It is essential to get the hearing aid on as soon as possible so the child does not fall behind in development," Herrmann said. "To a three-month-old baby, waiting one month is waiting a third of their life, so time is important."

What's the Difference?

By Pat O'Leary & Larry Ham

HOW TO PLAY: The answers to the two clues rhyme and the beginning consonant sounds are switched. For example: What's the difference between a neckwear fastener and a metal pan for baked desserts? One is a TIE PIN and the other is a PIE TIN. Sound counts, not spelling.

The brook on Wales Street which neighbors say may have been rerouted.

abutters. There's something really wrong here," he said.

Noreen Joubert, another Wales Street resident and Rogers' daughter, reported that she was the individual contacted by Fantasia to gather the signatures for approval to install water and sewer lines. (Signatures were required from the residents, she explained, because Wales Street is a private street.) Joubert said she was assured that water, sewer, and gas lines were going to be brought up.

Joubert also said that, in a conversation with Mark Dana of Massachusetts American Water Company, she was told that Mass. American Water wanted $63,000 for water to be brought up and an additional $25,000 fee which Fantasia does not want to pay.

Tom Brown, a former resident whose children still reside on Wales street, said he didn't think Fantasia had gone through all of the procedures. He also maintained that the movement of equipment is a traffic hazard and said that he was almost struck by one of Fantasia's pick-up trucks. "That area is not conducive to run a heavy equipment operation," he said. Brown also said that gas stations are required to rim off their stations to prevent a run-off of spills, but this is not required of Fantasia. "The site looks terrible," Brown said. "Take a look at the conservation area. He's (Fantasia) built up land by the brook. If that's the case, he shouldn't be there."

Lewandowski then noted that a traffic study had never been completed nor was there an environmental study done by the Department of Environmental Quality Engineering.

To a question by Lillian Moore concerning the propane gas tanks on the property, Haghanizadeh replied that they were inspected by the Fire Department.

Hulseberg noted that Fantasia does have an occupancy permit, but said that a site plan review should have been done before an occupancy permit was issued.

Lewandowski remarked that it appeared that Fantasia would need ZBA approval as well as traffic and environmental studies.

After more discussion, the board voted to continue the hearing.

The meeting ended at 11:30 PM.
